

WOMAN IN ACID THROWING CASE GIVEN FREEDOM

Mrs. Bessie Maddox Is Found Not Guilty of Charge of Assault With Intent To Kill.

WINS EXONERATION BY HELP OF ALIBI

Mrs. Maddox Denies She Was Present When Acid Was Thrown on Mrs. Hattie Russell.

Mrs. Bessie Maddox, of 9 Plum street, was found not guilty by a jury in Fulton superior court Friday on a charge of assault with intent to murder Mrs. Hattie Russell, of 9 Maullin street. The jury considered the case about 15 minutes.

Two indictments charging Mrs. Maddox with writing threatening letters to Mrs. Russell are still pending. It could not be learned definitely whether these charges would be pushed by the state or not. It was reported, unofficially, however, that they would be dropped.

Establishing what her lawyer, J. W. Bolton, claimed was a "perfect alibi," Mrs. Maddox denied she was at Pryor and Hunter streets on the morning of June 15 when Mrs. Russell is said to have been attacked by a woman who emptied a vial of acid on her.

Mrs. Russell charged that Mrs. Maddox met her there and exclaimed: "I told you I would get you if you didn't leave him (J. T. Russell, Mrs. Russell's estranged husband) alone."

She then threw the contents of a bottle on Mrs. Russell as the latter shielded her infant child, according to the testimony of Mrs. Russell.

B. L. Kennon, a druggist, told the jury he found acid dripping from the clothes of the stricken woman. He and Mrs. Russell were the only prosecution witnesses.

Mrs. Maddox claimed she was at the home of a friend at the time of the alleged attack and that she could not have been there.

Attorney Bolton lost a motion to dismiss charges against his client made soon after the trial opened. He claimed the type of acid was not a "weapon" likely to produce death, as charged in the indictment.

Charges Alibi Confirmed. John Hudson, assistant solicitor general, charged Mrs. Maddox's alibi was proved by her attorneys.

Both Mrs. Maddox and Russell, husband of Mrs. Russell, denied the existence of a "love affair" between them, as was charged by the prosecution. Russell stated that he had married Mrs. Russell but that he had never lived with her.

Mrs. Russell claimed she was attacked just after she left Fulton county courthouse after filing a suit against her estranged mate asking alimony for her and her child.

BLOCKING ROADS DECLARED ILLEGAL

Napier Scores Blocking Autos—Another Holdup of Atlantian in Forsyth County Reported.

BY H. C. HAMILTON.

Simultaneously with announcement Friday at the offices of Attorney General George Napier that Forsyth county officers and an agent of the United States prohibition force are violating a Georgia state law when they place obstructions in the path of automobiles, it was learned by The Constitution that another incident of road-blocking occurred recently near Cumming.

After reading in The Constitution of the experience of four Atlanta women who were stopped and subjected to indignity by Officers Leach, Bramblett and McGinnis, and Prohibition Agent Wallace, E. J. Johnson, a merchant of 93 Powell street, said that some time ago his automobile was suddenly stopped as he was driving carefully along a road near Cumming, when it ran into a cable stretched across the road. A driving rain was falling, he said, which made it necessary for him to proceed with care. Otherwise, he thought, he and his son, E. J. Johnson, Jr., and a Mr. Guffin, might have been killed.

"Wallace was a member of the party which ran to our car and searched it for whisky," said Mr. Johnson, "for I heard his name called several times."

Both headlights were torn from Mr. Johnson's automobile and he was forced to proceed with only one burning after it had been repaired. Near Alpharetta, he said, another cable was encountered, but the car was stopped before it struck the cable, when a man jumped on the running board, stuck a pistol in the driver's face, and demanded surrender of any liquor he might possess.

Mr. Johnson charged that logs often

Ray of Hope Seen To Avert Strike Of British Miners

Government Intermediary Succeeds in Getting Agreement for Conference To Be Held Wednesday.

CAPITALIST SYSTEM RAPPED BY MINERS

Miners Say They Will Protect Mines in Case of Strike as They Expect to Own Them.

BY CHARLES M. MCCANN.

London, July 24.—Coal miners and mine owners have agreed to meet in joint conference Wednesday in an effort to prevent a strike of 1,000,000 miners.

This agreement represents a triumph for W. C. Bridgeman, the government intermediary in the coal dispute, who until Friday had tried unsuccessfully to bring the disputants around a single common table. Bridgeman managed to bring the owners and miners together for a short conference Friday.

The other development of the day in the labor situation was the convention of a group of delegates representing 6,000,000 skilled trades unionists who were called together in extraordinary session to discuss the unemployment situation. The workers bitterly assailed the capitalist system of industry.

Excoriates Employers. A. B. Swales, president of the trades union congress, who presided, excoriated British employers for their policy of reducing wages to remedy the industrial situation. He said reductions were "stupid and futile, because they reduce the purchasing power of the great mass of consumers."

"The capitalists," Swales continued, "are intellectually bankrupt in face of the present difficulties. I warn the governing classes that there is a limit to the workers' endurance and forbearance."

A. J. Cook, secretary of the miners' union, was equally harsh. He appealed for support to protect the miners' standards of living and to help them obtain a living wage. He said that in 10 years the mine owners had received a profit of $15,000,000, and that $20,000,000 had gone as royalties to the owners of the land.

Will Protect Mines. "In the event of a strike," Cook said, "the miners will protect the pits from damages, as they hope to own the mines some day and do not want them destroyed."

The possibility of a strike at midnight, July 31, has been lessened by the agreement of the miners and owners to confer. It is understood that the owners will suspend their notice, terminating the present national wages and hours of labor agreement, from day to day if negotiations with the men extend beyond July 31, when the notice is to take effect.

No Progress Made AT ANTHRACITE PARLEY. Atlantic City, July 24.—After an all-day session, which was not even interrupted for lunch, the joint conference of the anthracite miners and operators adjourned Friday evening until Tuesday. If any progress was made, it was not discernible to observers. The conferees further discussed the check-off, but no decision was reached with regard to it.

Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, replied to the operators' statement that the miners, by virtue of successive wage increases, now have 68 per cent greater buying power than in 1914 and are more fortunate in this respect than workers in any other basic industry. Murray characterized the operators' statement as a "weak attempt to bolster up their case through smoke-screen methods."

"The high percentage of increases to which the anthracite operators refer," Murray said, "are due to the starvation wage levels upon which they are based. The wage level of 1914 was as low as $1.50 per day."

ALANTAN DIES IN TRAIN-AUTO CRASH AT ALMA

Victim Identified by Papers as W. H. Carroll, Secretary Atlantic Ice and Coal Company.

EIGHT ARE INJURED IN ACCIDENTS HERE

Miss Margaret Kreiss, Mrs. W. S. Edwards, Mrs. H. T. Brown and Miss Kennedy Injured.

Alma, Ga., July 24.—W. H. Carroll, of Atlanta, secretary and auditor of the Atlantic Ice and Coal company, was killed instantly at noon today when his automobile was demolished by a train at the Guyssie crossing, three miles west of this city.

The body of the man was mangled beyond recognition, but papers found in his pocket led to his identification. He was driving a high-powered sedan which was hurled from the tracks by the engine and fell in a pile of wreckage to one side.

The train was a local A. & A. freight from Brunswick to Waycross. The engineer stated he approached the crossing at about 25 miles an hour and that the automobile rolled onto the tracks when he was within 30 feet of it. The automobile was headed toward Waycross.

A cornfield at the side of the track obstructed the view of the approaching freight train. At the time of the accident there was a severe electrical storm.

The body of the dead man was brought to Alma tonight and placed in care of local undertakers, awaiting instructions from his relatives.

W. H. Carroll, who was killed near Alma, Ga., Friday, lived at 121 East Seventeenth street. Efforts to communicate with members of his family were made throughout Friday night. Friends stated that Mrs. Carroll, with her seven-year-old son, W. H. Jr., is visiting in Provincetown, Mass.

Mr. Carroll, who was about 40 years old, in addition to his wife and son, is survived by his mother, Mrs. A. M. Carroll, of Nashville, Tenn.; a brother, Alonzo Carroll, of Chattanooga; two sisters, Miss Martha Carroll, of Nashville, and another living in Boston, and two uncles, Harry Howe, of Nashville, and John B. Howe, of Nashville, formerly of Atlanta. Also, he was a nephew by marriage to George H. Brandon, of Barclay and Brandon, funeral directors.

In addition to being secretary and auditor of the Atlantic Ice and Coal company, Carroll was assistant treasurer of the Southern Ice corporation, the most valued younger members of the firm, J. C. Gentry, vice president and treasurer, stated Friday night.

Eight Persons Injured IN ATLANTA ACCIDENTS. Miss Margaret Kreiss and Mrs. W. S. Edwards, of 136 West Peachtree street, Friday morning were seriously injured when their automobile, driven by Clarence Coursey, crashed into a water plug and then careened into a telephone pole on Peachtree street, near Twelfth street. Coursey was not injured.

The two victims were carried to Davis-Fischer sanitarium, where physicians stated that their condition was serious. It is believed that both were injured internally.

Call Officers J. E. Hughes and M. E. Norwood stated that Coursey was a young man, about 25 years of age, who was suddenly blinded by the bright lights of an approaching automobile, causing him to lose control of his car.

Wilbur Hobbs, of 204 Wellington street; Gould Woodruff, of 124 Moseley place; and Oliff Walraven, of 773 Gordon street last Friday night reported that the result of an automobile collision at the intersection of West Hunter and Wellington streets.

Hobbs and Woodruff were in one car and Walraven was the driver of the other machine. No case was made by Lieutenant J. A. Hollis and Call

PROHIBITION REORGANIZATION IS POSTPONED INDEFINITELY IN ORDER TO GET RIGHT MEN

GRANTED REPRIEVE, SCOTT TO UNDERGO TEST FOR SANITY

Condemned Man Uncertain as to Own Mental Condition After Term of 19 Months.

FATHER OF VICTIM ASKS FOR JUSTICE

Report That Robert Scott Was on Way to Chicago To Save Brother Proved Erroneous by Inquiry.

Chicago, July 24.—(P)—Russell Scott, saved from the gallows twice in eight days almost at the hour set for his execution, today lost his comfortable death cell and mattress, when he was given a week's stay to test his sanity.

The former Canadian financier who has spent ten days in his death cell, twice coming within half a dozen hours of the death march, late today was moved from the cell into regular quarters with less comfortable accommodations and a hard wood bed in the Cook county jail.

The condemned man, saved from hanging this morning less than four hours before time for the trap to be sprung, gave up his cell willingly enough, however.

Sanity Test Granted. Scott, sentenced to hang for shooting a drug clerk during a holdup, received a week's reprieve six hours before hanging time when Governor Small received a telegram purporting to be from Scott's brother, Robert, indicted with him, the latter proving to be a hoax.

This reprieve expired last night and Governor Small refused further clemency. Four hours before the execution, however, Judge Joseph B. David this morning entered a stay until a test of his sanity is made.

Those who have worked desperately to save Scott's life, including Thomas Scott, his aged and crippled father, Mrs. Catherine Scott, his wife, who was racing here from Springfield to bid him farewell when he was snatched from the gallows this morning, took a much-needed breathing space.

Prison Psychosis Alleged. Attorney Stewart indicated tonight that Scott's defense at the sanity hearing will be that he is the victim of "prison psychosis," that his mind has become affected by the 19 months he has spent in the Cook county jail and by the harrowing experience of being taken twice to the death cell and seeing the death gavel gather about him, only to be literally snatched away from the noose a few hours later.

Almost the same alienists who testified for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, will testify for Scott. This has been made possible, Mr. Stewart said, through the receipt of more funds from sympathizers of his client.

Scott, confident, hopeful, but stoic, resigns himself with childish abandon to the inscrutable forces which twice have mocked the gallows.

"I was about 10 per cent guilty and 90 per cent innocent," he said in commenting on his conviction and the unprecedented maneuvers which have saved his life.

Thomas Scott, aged father of the prisoner, alleged in his petition that his son had become insane since his conviction for the murder of Joseph Maurer, a drug clerk in a robbery.

Only 12 Out of 81 Soldiers Able To Stand To Be Decorated

FRENCH GARRISON ALMOST WIPED OUT BY RIFFS

Fez, French Morocco, July 24.—A faltering parade of 12 unwounded members of a French garrison of 81 soldiers brought to a close an heroic incident of the Franco-Riffian war, according to the first eyewitness report of the parade which has just reached headquarters.

The story became known following the delivery of the French post at Ain Maataux, where the garrison had been surrounded for 33 days by Abd-el-Krim's marksmen. Repeated pleas for assistance finally caused General Billote to leave Ain Aicha with six battalions. They made a forced march, arriving at the beleaguered post after six and one-half hours, driving the besiegers before them.

Billote found the defenses in desperate state. Major Richard, the commanding officer, was lying in a tent, wounded. He had been there, suffering the filtered heat of a north African midsummer sun for 19 days. Fifty-six of Richard's men were wounded; 12 were dead, and 12 remained at their posts, holding off the Riffians.

A physician examined Richard and said that he would live, but that for a month he would be in bed. Then Billote reviewed a parade of the 12 unwounded soldiers, who stood at attention in the blazing sun and saw the cross of guerre pinned on their torn flag. Turning to the men, Billote pinned the cross on the breast of each, and the parade was over.

As Richard was carried out of the stockade he broke into tears and shouted to his faithful men that he would return to them as soon as he recovered.

PRESENT SYSTEM WILL BE CONTINUED AFTER AUGUST 1ST

Unexpected Difficulties and Delays in Selection of Personnel Are Held Responsible for Action.

HANDS OFF STAND TAKEN BY COOLIDGE

Pressure of Politicians for Patronage Denied as Cause of Delay—Applications Still at Flood.

Washington, July 24.—(P)—Inability to draw able and efficient men quickly into his new prohibition enforcement organization has forced Assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury to delay the date when the revamped enforcement system was to become operative.

The reorganization, which was to have been made effective gradually beginning August 1, therefore has been indefinitely postponed, in order that Mr. Andrews may comb the nation for men of the caliber he wants and to permit the working out of countless administrative details necessary to the new program.

In announcing the decision to delay the operative date of the change, Mr. Andrews declared today that he felt more optimistic regarding its probable success than at any time since taking the job as prohibition field marshal. There will be no lagging in finishing the task, he asserted, although more time is required than had been anticipated at the start.

Depends Upon Administrators. "I am convinced," he said, "that the success of the program will stand or fall by the character and ability of the men chosen as administrators. It was my intention to pick good big men when I arrived at a conclusion as to policy and program. My intentions have not been changed."

"It takes time to find the men all of us here feel that we must get. I won't be rushed off my feet in selecting them, because if they are not big men, capable men, then there will be no improvement and no benefits from the reorganization."

Explaining further his reasons for postponing the effective date of the reorganization, Mr. Andrews said he had been compelled to abandon the plan to put it into effect piecemeal because of many administrative difficulties which would arise.

He proposed to make it effective throughout the time for that the work would be done better, and he would be able to handle the list of the 22,000 employees of the bureau.

The assistant secretary of the treasury said that he would defer the effective date of the reorganization until he had been able to make the necessary changes.

NICARAGUAN BAND EVOLUTION TOPIC CERTAIN TO REACH CONGRESS FLOOR

American Mission at Grenada Bombed—Residences of Three Missionaries Attacked.

Washington, July 24.—(P)—The lives of three missionaries, representatives of the Central American mission at Granada, Nicaragua, have been threatened and their residence has been stoned and the mission bombed. Dispatches reaching here describe the situation in Granada as still serious.

The Central American mission, a Protestant institution, was established about four years ago, but only recently opened its headquarters in Granada.

Meetings Broken Up. This move was opposed at the time by the bishop of Granada, and since then there have been a series of disorders.

Doors and windows of the residence occupied by the missionaries were destroyed by stones and meetings held by them broken up.

On July 19 the mission was attacked and a door was blown off its hinges by a bomb explosion. None of the missionaries, two women and one man, was injured.

Appeals to the Nicaraguan government authorities at Managua were answered with a promise of police protection.

To Withdraw Marines. The state department today lacked any information concerning an appeal reported in Associated Press dispatches to have been made by the missionaries to the American legation at Managua.

It is supposed that the minister will render whatever aid seems necessary, but it is believed unlikely that the outbreak will interfere with plans to withdraw early in August the guard of 1,000 marines on duty in Nicaragua since 1912.

It became known today that the Nicaraguan government recently had asked that the marines be left on a permanent soil for the present, but Secretary Kellogg replied that the Washington government already had postponed the date of withdrawal several times and could not do so again.

NASHVILLE STOPS SUNDAY BURIALS AFTER AUGUST 1

Nashville, Tenn., July 21.—After August 1, there will not be any more burials in Nashville cemeteries on Sunday. Notices have been sent by the cemetery officials to all the undertakers in the city notifying them of the new regulations.

One reason for the new rule is that employees of the cemeteries and undertakers may have a day of rest, said one of the officers of the Mount Olivet Cemetery association.

Youth, With Broken Back, Welcomes His Parents Home

BOY SERIOUSLY INJURED DIVING ACCIDENT

Wakefield, R. I., July 24.—A Spartan-brave "Hello, mother—and dad," greeted Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Marshall, of Pittsburg, Pa., late Friday afternoon as they approached a cot-bed in South County Cottage hospital where their 15-year-old son, Rody, Jr., lay.

The boy they left in full possession of every faculty but a few weeks ago will not leave his bed for months, if ever, physicians say.

In an all but fatal diving accident 10 days ago he splintered two vertebrae of his backbone, causing a transverse lesion of the spinal cord. His limbs are paralyzed and his chances of ever regaining their use are regarded as dim.

Hot Weather First Georgia And Vacations Bale of Cotton Cut Marriages Brings 58 Cts.

Only Two Applications Here in Two Days; New Low Record.

Vacations and hot weather have dampened matrimonial intentions of white couples in Fulton county, according to records Friday in the office of Fulton county ordinary.

Only two applications for licenses have been filed by white persons in the past two days and only seven have been filed in all.

This is a record for the office since enactment of the law requiring prospective bachelors to file applications at least five days before the contemplated marriage.

Vacations and the heat are blamed for the scarcity of applications. Those filing application for licenses Thursday and Friday are Russell Meyer, 22, and Miss Marie Waits, 22, and Leon Foster, 21, and Miss Della Wilson, 22.

Record Price Is Obtained at Auction on N. Y. Cotton Exchange.

New York, July 24.—(P)—The first bale of cotton from the Georgia crop of 1925 was sold at auction on the New York cotton exchange today at 58c a pound, a record price.

The first bale of cotton from the Florida crop was auctioned at 50c a pound.

The Georgia bale, consigned by the grower to Hubbard Brothers and company, was purchased by Samuel I. Hubbard, Jr., member of the firm, and vice president of the N. Y. Cotton exchange.

The Georgia bale constituted a record in that it was the first bale picked so early in the season in that state in 25 years.

The two bales were on exhibition in front of the cotton exchange building.

Dawes Made Sioux Chieftain; Wyoming Woman Governor Becomes Princess Now 'White Feather Number 2'

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 24.—(P)—Vice President Charles G. Dawes late today became a chief of the Sioux Indian tribe and was named "White Feather Number Two" by the red men.

Pictorial tribal rites, in which Chief Red Feather, of the tribe, assisted by medicine men, all wearing the vari-colored feathered war head dresses and their bodies covered with paint, surrounded the ceremony of Mr. Dawes' induction into the tribe.

After the vice president's adoption by the Sioux tribe, Governor Nellie Taylor Ross, of Wyoming, was made an honorary member of the tribe, being given the cognomen of "Princess Nellie Taylor."

His adoption by the Indian tribe evidently made a big impression on Mr. Dawes, for he surrendered his famous underslung pipe for an Indian peace pipe, two feet long, decorated with brilliantly dyed eagle feathers. Mr. Dawes entered the tribal ceremony smoking his well-known pipe, but it was noted when the rites were over that he puffed happily on the long peace pipe. Chief Red Feather presented the vice president with the Indian pipe.

The tribe also gave Governor Ross an Indian hand bag, decorated with intricate bead work.

More than 15,000 persons witnessed the ceremony, which was a part of the closing program of the "Frontier days" wild west celebration.

The vice president during the wild cow milking contest acted as judge and unerringly spotted the cowpuncher who first produced a pint of milk, despite the wild melee of horses, cows, lariats and cowboys.

Mr. Dawes was considerably excited when Billy Wilkerson won the broncho-busting championship, "forking" and riding the wildest outlaw broncho, which had been named for the occasion "Hell in Maria Dawes."

CITY BIDS ADIEU TO OPERA TONIGHT

Farewells with flowers and cheers will mark the final performance tonight at the auditorium of "Sweethearts," which will bring to a close the first season of the Municipal Opera association and the directors expect the largest audience of the six weeks' run. Practically all of the stockholders have arranged for parties, the hundreds of friends of the principals and members of the chorus will be there to wave good-bye and several special stunts not on the usual program will make the performance unique.

That the light operas will be continued next season is the expressed desire of several hundred patrons who have written to C. B. Bidwell, general manager, urging that the same company be engaged for next year. No definite statement will be made by the association until after the next meeting of the stockholders.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS' WORTH OF FREE GOODS WILL BE GIVEN AWAY

As previously announced, all Rogers' Stores will be closed on next Wednesday all day to give all our employees, both in and out of Atlanta, a day of recreation and pleasure.

All stores will be open on Tuesday night until 9 o'clock.

Our company is taking all its employees, including those in the Purity Markets, and their families—numbering about 2,000—to Piedmont Park for a big picnic and back for a theater party that night to the

Howard Theater to see REX, the wild horse, in "BLACK CYCLONE"

In one big parade—150 decorated cars and trucks—we will pass through Whitehall and Peachtree Streets at 2:30 o'clock, headed by a band. Thousands of food items and souvenirs will be thrown to the crowds along the streets, and 25,000 coupons—EVERY ONE WITH A MONEY VALUE AT ROGERS' STORES—will be scattered along the way. NO BLANKS AMONG THEM.

In addition, 3,000 coupons will be thrown along the line entitling the holders to FREE GIFTS—sacks of White Lily Flour, Peanut Butter, Perfection Loaves of Bread, Potato Chips, Post Toasties, Calumet Baking Powder, Bonita Syrup, Clicquot Club Ginger Ale, Block's Cakes and Crackers, Philadelphia Cream Cheese, Kraft Cheese, Kellogg's Corn Flakes, Pep and Krumbles, and many other FREE GIFTS. Hundreds and hundreds of these items are to be given away ABSOLUTELY FREE.

The Parade will be as good as a circus—and it will be worth your time to see it. It will leave our Whitehall Street Warehouses at 2:30 sharp Wednesday.

COOLIDGE 'HANDS OFF'
TOWARD COAL STRIKE

Washington, July 24.—(AP)—The railroad which the Van Sweringen plan proposes to merge with the present Nickel Plate system, J. J. Carter, president of the Nickel Plate, notified today before the interstate commerce commission, can be run as a unit and save $600,000 a year as compared with the present operation. He arrived at the figure, he says, by a series of statistical calculations that took in economies in the use of equipment, shops, terminals and other facilities, which he held the combination would allow.

A vast amount of data was required for the presentation of Mr.

RIFF TRIBESMEN IN FULL RETREAT

London, July 24.—French troops have taken the offensive along the entire Moroccan front and more than two dozen villages are burning within eight miles of Tounat, after an intensive bombardment by all calibers of their artillery, according to a dispatch from Fez to the Daily Express.

Thousands of tribesmen are fleeing in the Tounat region, attempting to drive their live stock ahead of them, but they are being pursued by more than 100 airplanes with bombs and machine guns, according to this dispatch.

The arrival of reinforcements has put new life into the French troops, and the present general offensive is making a profound impression upon the retreating tribesmen, who form the majority of the troops of Abd-el-Krim facing the French.

There is some mystery concerning the whereabouts of Krim's unarmored regulars, who, it is believed, may be planning to spring a sudden surprise on the enemy.

U. S. LIVING COSTS
73 PERCENT HIGHER
THAN IN YEAR 1913

Washington, July 24.—(AP)—The cost of living in the United States increased 73.5 per cent from 1913 to 1925.

The figures, made public tonight by the bureau of labor statistics of the labor department, showed that the greatest percentage of increase was in house furnishing goods, the prices of which this year averaged 114.3 per cent higher than in 1913.

The bureau's figures cover a survey of living costs in 32 representative cities and take in all the important items of living costs.

Since 1920, the figures revealed, there has been a decrease in the cost of living in the 32 cities amounting to 19.9 per cent, although a 2.6 per cent increase was shown during the year ending in June.

STUDENT PLEADS
MANSLAUGHTER
IN WATER DUEL

Shreveport, La., July 24.—(AP)—George Wray Gill, Loyola university law student, today pleaded guilty to manslaughter in connection with the death of Robert Read, Centenary college student, who met death here several weeks ago in a fight with Gill. Gill was remanded to jail for sentence later today.

Gill told officers that Read had insulted Mrs. Gill, with whom he had been going before she and Gill were married, and that the two young college men met at a nearby pleasure resort and fought out their differences. The men toppled out of their boats on the lake and struggled in waist-deep water until Read went down and was drowned.

Mrs. Gill was present and was arrested on charges of having aided her husband in the fight. She was released on bail, but Gill had been held without bond.

Skeleton of Huge Mammal
Is Found in Illinois Lake

EXPERTS BELIEVE MASTODON'S BONES FOUND

Chicago, July 24.—Authorities on paleontology here are excited over the discovery of a lake near Ingleside, Ill., of the gigantic skeleton of a prehistoric monster, believed to be the remains of a mastodon.

The skeleton was discovered by a dredging crew while clearing away a new canal from Fox lake. A bucket of dredge came up under a heavy pull with a huge skull clinging to the side. The startled engineers allowed the bucket to jerk and the skull crashed back into the water. Additional loadings of the bucket, however, thrust other bones to the surface and resulted in the successful recovery of a rib and vertebra.

The bones were forwarded to the field museum here and Dr. Nichols, geologist, and Professor Elmer S. Riggs, paleontologist, at once made preparations to recover the entire skeleton.

Indian Tribes Sue Nation
PAYMENT FOR LAND IN FOUR STATES SOUGHT
For More Than 68 Millions

Washington, July 24.—A page of forgotten history has been opened here, that page which describes the career of a red man wandering through the open lands of the west.

The leaves were turned back Thursday by a suit filed by five Indian tribes, asking that Uncle Sam pay them for millions of acres of "happy hunting grounds" in four states, which they claim has been taken from them by the government.

They ask exactly $68,700,343.47 for their old hunting grounds. The tribes are the Blackfoot, Blood, Piegan and Gros Ventre of Montana and the Nez Perce of Idaho and Washington. These lands, the suit sets forth, were taken from the Indians without their consent and without compensation in violation of treaties.

Further, the red men claim that their rights to hunt fish and cut timber in what is now Glacier National park was revoked also without their consent. Nearly all of Yellowstone National park, now the playground of tourists, is involved in the suit.

Coolidge Opposes
Revision in Tariff
By Next Congress

Swampscott, Mass., July 24.—(AP) President Coolidge will not sanction any attempt to revise the tariff act at the next congress.

It was reiterated today that the executive feels that any meddling with this tariff will create general uncertainty and react unfavorably on business.

Mr. Coolidge believes also, that practically the same trade and business conditions now exist between this country and foreign nations as prevailed when the present act was created. Imports are increasing and exports are continuing along satisfactory lines and he feels it will be wise to see how the law works out.

The president is particularly averse to reopening the whole tariff system at this time because of the effect he fears it would have on business by bringing about a situation of uncertainty.

It was stated at the summer white house that no serious proposals for revising the tariff have been received and it was emphasized that the president would make no such recommendations to congress.

The executive's ultimatum against tariff legislation leaves the way open for the next congress to center its attention on the matter of revenue work for tax reduction. The president has proposed a cut in taxes, and Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee has called the committee to assemble in October to frame a tax bill.

A quantity of clothing was taken from the residence of E. F. Ridley, 729 East North avenue Friday.

FARMERS FAIL TO EARN FAIR CAPITAL RETURN

Washington, July 24.—(AP)—Farmers failed to earn a fair return on the capital invested and a fair wage last year, although they fared better financially than in the preceding year, the department of agriculture declared today in an analysis of the agricultural balance sheet.

On the total capital invested in agriculture, the return for the year was estimated at 4.6 per cent compared with 3.3 the year before. In round figures the net income for the 1924-25 season, the department said, was $2,712,000,000 compared with $1,922,000 for 1923-24.

This sum, however, did not go entirely to farmers, as they own only 79 per cent of the total capital and pay interest on the balance.

LUMBERMAN ADMITS FIRING FATAL SHOT

Corinth, Miss., July 24.—Fain W. King, lumberman of Paducah, Ky., admitted on the witness stand in circuit court here today that he fired a shot that proved fatal to E. D. Marshall, wealthy lumberman, in a hotel here last January. King said he shot in self defense when he saw Marshall reach in a pocket as though he intended to draw a weapon.

King testified Marshall invited him in a hotel room, locked the door and charged him with having reported to the other directors of the First National Bank of Paducah, that Marshall was neglecting his lumber business and that payment on a $30,000 loan should be asked of Marshall. King, who was a director of the Paducah bank, told Marshall he had made no effort to have payment on the loan called. The shooting followed this discussion, King testified.

A negro employed as a porter at the hotel where the killing occurred, testified he found the door to Marshall's room locked shortly after the two men entered the room. He said he went there to deliver a message to King.

From the vertebra, which is six inches thick and ten inches long, and the rib, 10 inches long, authorities believe that the remains are those of a mastodon, a three-ton creature that roamed the hills and prairies more than 50,000 years ago.

The field museum scientists hope to recover the skull, which the workmen reported was too large for their equipment to handle. The scientists are making a survey to determine the best method of removing the skeleton as nearly intact as possible.

Mastodons, according to Professor Riggs, were more or less plentiful in the Chicago area about 50,000 years ago and during the glacial period. They were enormous brutes similar in appearance to the elephant, and had long heavy tusks. Absolute identification of the monster, however, cannot be made until its skull and molars are examined.

As their attorneys, the Indians have a former government official, John G. Capers, who was at one time commissioner of internal revenue here and the firm of Severn Joyce and Kaylor. The government will be represented by Herman J. Galloway, assistant attorney general, and George T. Stern, special assistant to the attorney general and expert on Indian affairs. The case will be decided by the court of claims, which was given authority over Indian claim cases by the last congress.

KILLED, 1 INJURED IN ROCK CRASH

Winder, Ga., July 24.—(Special)—In an accident at the railroad crossing at Carl, in this county about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, Berry Hood, of Carl, was killed and Henry Helton, of near Carl, was seriously injured.

They were in a truck going toward Atlanta and were struck at this crossing by a freight engine that was also going toward Atlanta.

Coming in the opposite direction had stopped to let the engine pass and saw the truck as it was hit by the engine. Immediately after the accident brought Hood to the Winder hospital where he died about 4:30 o'clock, and Albert Adams, of Carl, brought Helton, who was seriously injured and is not expected to live.

It is supposed that as both parties were familiar with railroad schedules, they did not hear the engine blow the crossing on account of the noise the truck made and were caught in the small cut at the crossing.

Hood, who was about 50 years old, lived in about 30 feet of the spot where he was killed in a small house. Helton, who is about the same age, lived about a quarter of a mile away.

Hood is survived by his mother with whom he lived, and Helton has a wife and several children.

GARY VIGOROUS AFTER SOJOURN IN BIRMINGHAM

Birmingham, Ala., July 24.—(AP)—Apparently vigorous and in happy frame of mind, Albert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, today left Birmingham for New York after having his diet supervised for some time by physicians attached to the corporation's Fairfield hospital.

Mr. Gary said he was "feeling good" and his appearance bore out the statement when he received a number of newspapers. This ended his third visit to Birmingham within the last 60 days.

While under observation of physicians for diet supervision, he spent much of his time inspecting the corporation's properties in the Alabama mine field.

While he was optimistic concerning business in general, and the corporation's work in this district in particular, nothing definite was said concerning reported expansion in Alabama.

Mrs. Gary accompanied her husband.

PHILLIPS ATTENDS
HIS FIRST SESSION OF HIGHWAY BOARD

For the first time since appointment of John R. Phillips, of Louisville, to the state highway board, that body met Friday at the offices of the department at East Point. Mr. Phillips was named to succeed W. T. Anderson, resigned, by Governor Clifford Walker last week and his nomination promptly confirmed by the senate. No matters of importance were taken up at the Friday meeting.

A delegation of citizens from Muscogee, Harris and Meriwether counties called on Chairman Holder Thursday asking that the road from Warm Springs to Columbus be included in the state highway system.

Muriel Vanderbilt
Will Be Wed Today
At Newport Villa

Newport, R. I., July 24.—A Vanderbilt wedding, the brightest social festival remaining on the American social calendar, will bring survivors and descendants of the old 400 and a levy of new recruits to Newport Saturday and regild for a day the fading glories of this erstwhile American Riviera.

Miss Muriel Vanderbilt, the daughter of the William K. Vanderbilt, a princess of the American royalty, almost notorious in her set because she shuns both flask and cigarette, will be married to Frederick Cameron Church, a Bostonian, who won his football letter at Harvard after the war.

Like Miss Anne Stillman, Miss Vanderbilt will be married in the midst of a delicate family situation requiring consummate tact, for her parents, like those of Miss Stillman, are estranged, but will be present at the ceremonies.

There will be about 200 guests at the wedding and the reception on the lawn, but the Countess Soerenga, who will give a ball at the Whitney estate in the evening, intends to be more liberal. There will be 400 or 500 at her party.

Police of Two Cities Seeking
J. S. Crumley.

Atlanta and Richmond police Friday were investigating the possible suicide of J. S. Crumley, 27, formerly of Atlanta but now of Richmond, Va., who left that city about 9 o'clock Thursday morning presumably for this city and has not been seen since.

In a letter addressed to relatives in Atlanta, living at 19 Belmont street, received Friday morning, Crumley is said to have made known his intention of committing suicide.

Two Are Injured.

Mrs. H. T. Brown, of 661 South Boulevard, and Miss E. L. Kennedy, of 210 East Georgia avenue, received bruises and lacerations about the body, late Friday when the car in which they were riding collided with a machine driven by Mrs. M. S. Mongeon, of 296 Washington street, and then overturned. The accident occurred at the intersection of Pulliam and Richardson streets.

The victims were carried to Grady hospital, where medical aid was rendered. Their condition is said to be serious.

Call Officers Goode and Bullard, who investigated, state that Mrs. Mongeon was driving east on Richardson street, while Mrs. Brown, the driver of the other machine, was going north on Pulliam street. A case of reckless driving was made against Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Mongeon.

237 Paintings by Sargent
Found Hidden in His Flat

London, July 24.—John Singer Sargent, the American painter, who overcame many a tradition of art during his lifetime, has reached from the grave to establish another precedent.

Sargent's executors discovered on the walls of his flat in Chelsea, the Bohemian district of London, 237 of the master's paintings which he had retained for his own pleasure. Scant importance was attached to the find, as many of them merely were sketches, but it was decided to auction them.

The first day of the auction, Friday, realized approximately $750,000, and some of the paintings still are to be disposed of.

None of the traditions of art were borne out by Sargent. In the first place, he was an American, although born in Florence, Italy. Also he was the son of a well-to-do father. His schooling was of the best. He never saw the inside of a garret unless out of curiosity, or to visit a less fortunate friend.

Before he was 40 Sargent was established in London as the most popular portrait painter of his time, and before he died his works had been hung in the national gallery, an honor never accorded before to any artist.

At the time of his death an entire room in the national gallery was virtually given over to Sargent, the Wertheimer group of portraits comprising the principal display.

BRIDEGROOM ARRESTED
Honeymoon of Frank McKenzie Marred by Police.

New York, July 24.—(AP)—Police today temporarily terminated the honeymoon of Frank McKenzie, who said he was a professional golfer, and his bride of a week, McKenzie was arrested here Friday night in a raid on the residence. The raid was conducted by Detectives C. E. McCrary and L. J. Brooks.

Two hundred and fifteen gallons of corn liquor were seized and Bessie Banks, 36, negro, of 171 Oakdale road, was arrested late Friday night in a raid on the residence. The raid was conducted by Detectives C. E. McCrary and L. J. Brooks.

Dr. Ben R. Lacy, Jr., pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, has formally refused the call to the vice presidency of the Union Theological seminary at Richmond, Va., which he received just before leaving for his vacation in Linden, Va.

The church was informed of the call about two weeks ago, and at that time officers and congregation passed resolutions urging the pastor to remain in Atlanta, and copies of these were sent to Dr. Lacy.

He has served his present charge since 1919, and during that time he has been active in civic affairs.

NEW RAILWAY URGED IN SOUTHEAST STATES

Washington, July 24.—(AP)—A plan for constructing an extensive line of new railroad through Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky, was filed today with the interstate commerce commission by the Florence, Clifton and Paducah Railroad company, an Alabama corporation.

The projected main line would be 225 miles long with terminals at Florence, Ala., and Paducah, Ky.

A 25-mile branch from Wayne to Savannah, both points in Tennessee, was proposed as a part of the plan. Financing of the construction cost would be accomplished by the sale of bonds, but no estimates of the cost were included.

Over 100 Improvements and Refinements

Oakland Six owners everywhere have expressed surprise that a car so powerful and spirited should operate so smoothly and quietly. And yet this car has been still further bettered by more than 100 improvements and refinements — including Oil Filter, perfected full pressure Oiling System, larger Crankshaft and Bearings, Air Cleaner, Four-wheel Brake refinements, still larger Balloon Tires and many other features of advanced engineering which contribute to the outstanding value of the car.

The Harmonic Balancer A vitally important and exclusive Oakland feature, the result of years of intensive research and development by Oakland and General Motors engineers — renders the Oakland Six engine positively unmatched in the absence of vibration at all speeds. It establishes Oakland even more firmly than ever as the outstanding leader in advanced engineering.

~ and New Prices ~ $70 to $350 lower Oakland's much lower prices would of themselves make this announcement one of the most important of the year. Considering the many important refinements which have been added to a car already unmatched in appearance and performance, the new prices are all the more impressive.

Come in — see the new Oakland Six — drive it — study the remarkable Harmonic Balancer — get the new lower prices — see why Oakland is more than ever the outstanding leader in its field.

Senate Faces Busiest Week as New Measures Reach Stages of Passage

Many Bills of General Interest and Numerous Minor Measures Will Be Called for Action.

With legislative enactment having assumed definite form and a large number of important measures already disposed of, the state senate will convene at 11 o'clock Monday morning to tackle by far the busiest week yet experienced in the 1925 session.

Favorable recommendation given two companion highway department measures Friday afternoon by the highway committee of the senate will bring the bills before the upper house some time next week. The bills will be reported favorably by substitute, though the substitute does not materially change the effect of the original bills, merely adding amendments for disposition of present highway department property, and providing that members of the commission handling funds shall make substantial bonds.

The highway reorganization measures are known as the "Thompson bills." They were drafted by A. H. Thompson, of LaGrange. One provides reorganization of the department with three commissioners as under the present law, but also provides that construction and maintenance work shall be done by contract. The other bill provides for creation of a highway fund to be used in construction and maintenance.

Another important measure on which action next week is forecast is the bill creating a new state department—that of a real estate commission—to raise the standards of the real estate profession in this state.

Creation of the new county of Hughes from portions of Twiggs, Wilkes and Laurens will be brought up in the senate by a bill sponsored by Senators Hughes and Williams. Oratorical guns will swing into action on the inheritance tax early next week, with a measure introduced for its repeal. Two measures by Senators Carr and Dickson are ready for third reading and passage to repeal this tax.

Public safety will come up early in the week when the railroad grade crossings measure is called up. The senate will be asked to pass a substitute measure for two bills introduced by Senators Owens and Hutcheson. The substitute provides for automobile bills stopping at dangerous grade crossings, together with the erection of signs at such crossings by the railroad. Determined opposition to this measure is expected.

Following passage of the anti-Sunday dancing bill in the house this week, the measure will come up for senate consideration early next week.

Proposes Road Probe. Investigation of alleged illegal expenditures by the state highway department would be made by a special committee of five senators under provisions of a resolution introduced Friday by Senator J. R. Hutcheson, of the 39th district.

Senator Hutcheson said that he will spend the entire week-end studying the report of State Auditor Sam Slater on the highway department and will open fire Monday on the department.

By unanimous consent Friday a privilege resolution by Senator Ira Carlisle, of the seventh, the senate granted permission for a portrait of Judge Robert G. Mitchell, of Thomasville, who was president of the state senate in 1890 and '91, to be hung in the senate chamber.

A house bill which would authorize superior court judges to direct a revision of the jury lists in their respective counties was defeated by a vote of 22 to 16 in the senate Friday. The senate passed a bill allowing farmers to give a bill of sale for crops whether the crops have been planted or not. The bill, by Senator Mays, of the 11th district, was passed unanimously and by unanimous consent, immediately transmitted to the house for action. An amendment to the bill which provided for the owner to retain his prior lien.

Fulton Court Bill. Another measure which passed the senate allows judges of the Atlanta municipal court to sit on the city criminal court bench in an emergency, the bill by Senator Hendrix being an amendment to the present law.

Senator Harrell, of the 12th, introduced a measure to authorize a sales tax and a tax of not more than 10 mills on stocks, bonds and other securities. Senator Hendrix introduced a measure to create the office of state inspector of masonry, public buildings and works, and at a salary of $3,600 a year and $1,500 allowance for expenses. Three assistants with salaries of $2,000 each are provided for.

Senator Guess introduced a bill to create the office of state elevator inspector, at a salary of $2,000 a year, and to require frequent inspections.

PROHIBITION REORGANIZATION INDEFINITELY DELAYED

Several Sargent late in the day discussing certain phases of the new program. It was indicated afterwards that the conference largely had to do with border problems, described as an important part of the general scheme on which Mr. Andrews has been working.

As a result of the delay announced today reports arose that the whole program of reorganization had been abandoned. There also was a rumor in circulation that the prohibition bill was ready to give up in disgust. He refused to take them seriously, however, saying he felt he was making headway despite opposition known to have developed in several quarters.

Pressure Reports Denied. Regarding the opposition, and particularly the reported pressure by members of congress in behalf of prohibition, Mr. Andrews said that he was not aware of any such pressure. Acting Secretary Winston voiced the opinion that thus far the "pressure has amounted to nothing." In this connection Mr. Andrews said the applications for reappointment had been arriving at a rate in excess of 200 a day, but it has been known some days that most of them were being dismissed with a courteous acknowledgment of their receipt.

There was some speculation as to the effect of the position taken by President Coolidge, as reported today from Swampscott, some observers declaring that the president's remarks mean a closed door against political appointments if the treasury cared to follow through on recommendations from senators and political leaders.

Pledged Coolidge's Aid. Mr. Andrews said he was told, when he laid the reorganization plan before the president, that the chief executive would support him wholeheartedly, and the same assurance was forthcoming from Secretary Mellon.

Despite these views the stream of callers at Mr. Andrews' office was not thinned, and today he saw almost a score, nearly all of whom were there to advance cases of their own or their friends.

COOLIDGE WILL GIVE ANDREWS FREE HAND. Swampscott, Mass., July 24.—(AP) President Coolidge is determined to give Assistant Secretary Andrews, of the treasury, a free hand in his efforts to enforce prohibition.

Indications were given today at the summer white house here that Secretary Andrews would be given wide latitude in the selection of regional enforcement officers, the president believing that politics had been practically eliminated from the prohibition service and properly should cut no figure.

Before leaving Washington it was disclosed the president assured Mr. Andrews that he would have a free hand in making appointments and carrying on his warfare against bootleggers and rum runners and that he could count at all times on wholehearted support from the executive.

Not only is the president satisfied with the attempts of Mr. Andrews to keep politics in the background, but he believes Prohibition Commissioner Haynes has succeeded in keeping his bureau practically free of political influence. In his efforts to bring about enforcement of the Volstead law Commissioner Haynes, in Mr. Coolidge's belief, has been prompted only by a desire to have an efficient force of agents, regardless of their political affiliations or the requests of political officeholders for favored treatment.

Although there have been indications from Washington that Mr. Andrews is having difficulty in making up the personnel of his regional enforcement staff, President Coolidge apparently is convinced he will make wise selections and is in no way apprehensive that there will be any great delay in putting the new enforcement plan into operation. No arrangement has been made for Mr. Andrews at any time he feels in need of the executive's advice.

Five Hurt as Street Car Hits Truck

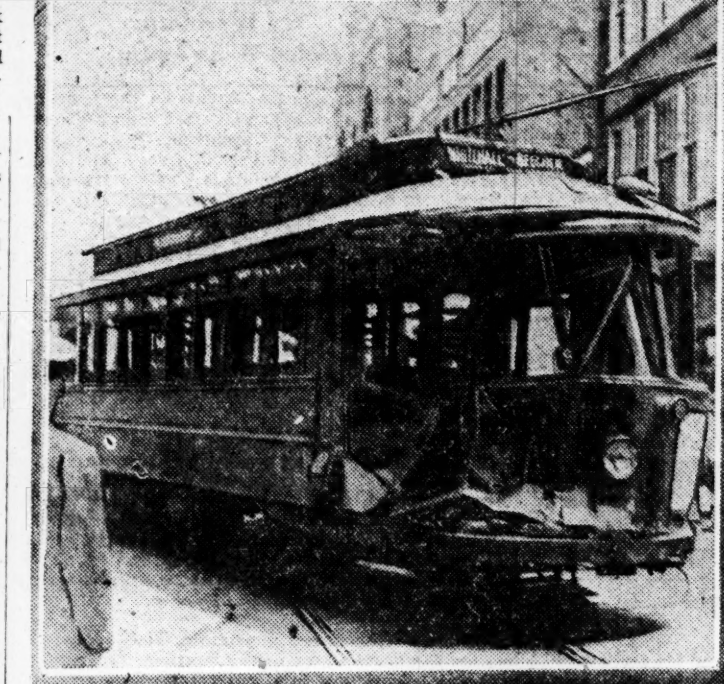

Above is shown the heavy truck knocked to the sidewalk when it was struck at Whitehall street and Trinity place by the street car pictured below.

Five persons sustained minor injuries and a large number of others narrowly escaped injury at noon Friday when a street car and a heavy truck loaded with concrete collided at Whitehall street and Trinity avenue. The car left the rails and plowed to the curb at the left side of the street.

The injured were taken to local hospitals for treatment. They were J. C. Cash, of Dunwoody, Ga., driver of the truck; Miss Frances Beckness, 20, of 20 Park street; C. A. Corbin, motorman; W. J. Bettis and a Mr. Nicholson, all passengers on the car. All escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

According to witnesses the street car was crossing Trinity avenue after having stopped to take on passengers, as the truck turned out of Trinity. The truck driver swerved his machine but too late to avoid striking the car.

U. S. PLANES PLAN LONGEST TRANS-WATER FLIGHT

Important Role in Air Trip

Honolulu, July 24.—(AP)—The part that radio and radio compass will play in the proposed flight of three naval seaplanes from the Pacific coast to Hawaii, the longest non-stop trans-water flight ever attempted, was emphasized today in orders issued by Captain Stanford E. Moses, commander of the flight of the planes.

Each of the two P-N-9 planes and the Boeing plane will be equipped with a radio transmitter and receiver working only on 550 kilocycles. The planes will not be equipped with radio compasses, but each of the 11 surface vessels strung out along the course at 200-mile intervals, except the two mine sweepers, will be capable of taking radio bearings on the planes on 550 kilocycles at distances up to 150 miles.

Undivided attention of all ships and other units of the communication service will be given to maintaining definite and accurate information as to the location of the planes at all times.

Priority will be given, first to communication with the planes; second, to communications with adjacent plane guard ships and, third, to keeping the starting point and the commander of the flight project informed.

The flight will start August 7, the tentative starting time, and until the completion of the flight, communications to the plane guard ships and to N. P. G., San Francisco, during the first three minutes of each even and half hour. As soon as a plane is heard by a station ship on the radio, compass bearings will be taken as frequently as possible. As soon as signals from the plane can be copied reliably on the radio compass the ship—that is, one plane may act as radio guide for the other two.

Each plane will carry a few message bags and may drop one on any ship in case the radio is not being used. The bags will be watertight and provided with small floats. Planes also will communicate with the guard ships by visual signals when convenient.

JAPANESE PLANES BEGIN LONG TRIP. Tokyo, July 25.—(AP)—Two air-planes hopped off this (Saturday) morning for Moscow, Russia, on the first Japanese long distance flight ever attempted. The flight is sponsored by Azaiki, a Tokyo newspaper.

Each plane carried a pilot and engineer. The route as laid down was to Osaka, Tachiarai, Heijoe, Korea, Harbin, and Tschita, Siberia.

Tybee Soldiers TO GREET WALKER

Tybee Island, Ga., July 24.—(Special).—Governor Clifford Walker and members of his staff will receive a rousing welcome upon their arrival here Saturday morning for a brief visit to Tybee island and the camp of the 122nd infantry, Georgia national guard. Bunting and flags have been appropriately hung in conspicuous places.

Orders have gone out rescheduling a part of the training schedule for the morning and instead, the regiment will be arrayed on Tybee shortly before noon for a regimental parade in honor of the commander-in-chief of the state troops and his staff.

Residents and visitors on the island are joining hands with military forces to the end that nothing be left undone in extending to the state's chief executive and his staff fullest honors. The civilian welcome will consist of a turning out en masse to the parade while a parade and the governor's salute of 17 guns will be fired as the military feature.

Officers of the 122nd regiment were guests Thursday at a dinner of the officers of the 118th field artillery and the 55th field artillery brigade of Savannah. Addresses were made by Mayor Hull, of Savannah; Mayor Steve Harris, of Tybee; General Travis, of Savannah; Colonel Brabson, of Fort Screven, and others.

Colonel Cor. of the 122nd regiment, replied in a short, pointed talk to welcoming words and praises offered by other speakers.

The camp proper is taking on the appearance of war days, firing being in order for many outfits—rifle companies, howitzer company and machine gun units. Firing next week will assume big feature of the training program and it will be necessary for all firing to take place on the beach with guns pointed into the face of the Atlantic ocean. Regular army instructors, headed by Colonel J. M. Kimbrough, are in charge of all field and map problems, the latter problems being under Major Brougher, and forming an important part of each day's program.

Health conditions of men continue about the average, ill reported being minor in nature and promptly arrested by regimental medical officers. Sanitary conditions are being maintained.

Officers Instruct. The corps of army instructors include approximately 15 officers and sergeants, specialists in practically every department of war and in many instances have completed the latest courses at various army schools. These instructors go into the drill field with the soldiers and men and remain with them throughout the drill period, coaching and making suggestions that aid in bringing up the efficiency of each outfit to its highest degree.

The Georgia bale will be shipped immediately to the Liverpool Cotton association, where it will again be auctioned off for charity.

The Georgia bale to bring the record price on the cotton exchange Friday was grown in Colquitt county by A. B. Rogers.

It was sent first to Savannah and last Tuesday was sold at auction to Alexander Eccles and company. The bale brought 43 cents a pound at the Savannah sale.

It was then shipped to Hubbard Brothers and company, cotton brokers at New York, where it was again auctioned Friday, bringing the record price of 58 cents.

The bale was an unusually heavy one, weighing 613 pounds. It was officially classed as "middling" gin cut, with good clean staple."

BALLARD REPORTS NEEDS OF SCHOOLS

The annual report of Dr. N. H. Ballard, state superintendent of schools, sent to the governor Friday, stresses the tremendous growth in education in Georgia and the consequent pressing need for heavier educational appropriations to meet demands of the people. Dr. Ballard recently ended his term as school superintendent, being succeeded by Fort E. Land, of Macon.

Included with Dr. Ballard's recommendations are reports of George D. Goldard, state supervisor of schools, and Dr. E. A. Pound, state supervisor of high schools. Mr. Goldard declares that the law of compulsory attendance must be more fully enforced if illiteracy is to be stamped out in the state, and points out that present methods of financing schools cannot meet demands of the state.

There are now 275 accredited high schools in Georgia, Dr. Pound states, with an enrollment of 65,989, compared to only 21 accredited high schools in 1905.

Dr. Ballard urges that the present law requiring that one-half of the state revenue be appropriated to the common schools be either repealed or some means found of complying with it. He also supports the plan to create an educational adjustment fund to insure at least a seven-month term in every county of the state.

CRACKERS MEET JACK SIMPSON

Mooney Meets Hamp, Favored by Dope; Doubles Finals Billed for Sunday

BY BEN COTHMAN.

Jack Mooney, holder of one leg on the two-year Grant-Jeter trophy, will meet Jack Simpson, semi-finalist in last year's tourney today for the singles title of the city at Piedmont park at 3 o'clock. Mooney has a slight edge on his opponent, as he defeated Simpson in the semi-finals of last year's tourney. The match has the prospects, however, of being the best of the tourney.

Semi-finals were played in the doubles Friday, with no upsets, although Grant and Mansfield came close to eliminating Mooney and Simpson, runners-up of last year. Peeples and Gardner were hard put to defeat Covington and Mansfield, the last set going to extra games. The finals in doubles will be played Sunday.

The winner of today's match is hard to determine. Although dope gives Mooney a victory, there have been several upsets in the tourney this year, in which ranking players were defeated by dark horses. Simpson has been going like a house on fire all through the tourney. He has beaten several of his opponents while his back-hand will give the present champion something to worry about. On the other hand, Mooney has a chop-stroke that will bear watching, and he puts a curious cut on his serve that makes it hard to return. It will easily be the best and hardest fought match of the tourney.

A serious upset came near taking place in the match between Mooney and Simpson, runners-up of last year, when Simpson, who was playing as a junior champion, Mooney and his partner finally won the match, after having had the match point twice. Simpson and Grant, who were playing as a junior champion, Mooney and his partner finally won the match, after having had the match point twice.

Grant and Mansfield found their stride in the second set and were playing a game that was hard to beat. They took the second set, 6-2. The best playing of the match came in the third set. At first it seemed that Mooney and Simpson would take the set without much trouble. With the score standing 2-2 against Simpson, Grant and Mansfield started a hard driving game and won two games in succession. At one time Simpson and his partner had the match point, but the Mansfield duo, by acting their opponent several times, came from behind and won the game. In the de-

Barbecue at Durand's Farm To Assemble Atlanta Society

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. James T. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Raine to a barbecue at Durand's farm on Saturday evening, August 1, at 6 o'clock. This affair is an annual custom celebrating the birthdays of Mr. Williams and Mr. Raine, always gathering several hundred friends of these prominent Atlantians. This beautiful al fresco affair will take place at "Hawthorne," one of the most picturesque estates in DeKalb county, situated near Decatur. Atlanta friends will motor out to "Hawthorne" late in the afternoon for the barbecue to be followed by dancing in the outdoor pavilion.

Miss Dorothy Stein Is Honor Guest.

Miss Dorothy Stein, of Philadelphia and Lancaster, Pa., who is the guest of Miss Mary Armstrong, continues to be feted with a series of social affairs. Charles McGhee, Jr., will entertain at the tea-dance at the Atlanta Biltmore in honor of Miss Stein and Miss Adelaide Koonce, of Columbus, Ga.

Miss Stein and Miss Koonce will be popular figures attending the Piedmont Driving club dinner-dance this evening.

Miss Armstrong will honor her guest with a supper and treasure hunt Tuesday evening at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue.

Wednesday afternoon Miss Stein will be honor guest at the large afternoon tea to be given by Miss Armstrong.

Miss Stein will share honors with Miss Lillian Wood, of Richmond, Va., the guest of Miss Marguerite Hodnett, at a bridge-tennis to be given by Miss Jane Small Thursday afternoon.

Among others who will entertain during the coming week will be Lloyd Hatcher, who will give a swimming party in honor of Miss Stein.

Miss Withers Given Lovely Luncheon.

Miss Margaret Withers, of Columbia, S. C., the guest of Miss Sarah Law, was the honor guest at the lovely luncheon at which Miss Mary Harvey was hostess Friday at 1 o'clock at her home on Argonne drive.

A large silver basket filled with vari-colored garden flowers was used as a central decoration.

Miss Robert S. Harvey assisted in entertaining.

The guests included Miss Withers, Miss Sarah Law, Miss Sarah Southwell, Miss Florence Hewlett and Miss Frances Barnett.

Miss Bridges Hostess.

Another affair honoring Miss Withers was the swimming party at which Miss Eugenia Bridges was hostess, followed by a tea at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at Brookhaven Country club.

Tea was served at a table placed on the veranda of the club, where covers were placed for a few intimate friends.

Miss Rogers Gives Party.

In the morning Miss Martha Worth Rogers entertained informally at a swimming party at the East Lake Country club in honor of Miss Withers. Only a few friends were invited.

Miss Buchanan Given Lovely Luncheon.

Miss Buchanan, who has been taking an active part in the chorus work of the Municipal Light Opera company, was hostess at the Piedmont Driving club in honor of members of the light opera company at a lovely luncheon Friday.

The beautifully appointed table was placed on the back porch of the club overlooking the park. A large bowl of roses and gladioli was used as a central decoration.

Covers were laid for Miss Buchanan.

Friday Bridge Club At Fort McPherson Enjoyable Affair

One of the most delightful occasions among the army circle was the meeting of the Friday Evening Bridge club last evening at the Officers' club at Fort McPherson.

The meetings are always enjoyable affairs and high lights in the week's gaieties, their informality making them particularly delightful.

Social life at the fort has been at a lower ebb this summer than usual with so many of the officers and their wives at Camp McClellan, the summer camp at Anniston, Ala.; however, there are always enough gaieties to keep up the social interest.

Quite a large crowd gathered last evening, among those present being Col. and Mrs. G. S. Humphrey, Col. and Mrs. E. E. Haskell, Col. and Mrs. M. S. Jarvis, Col. and Mrs. H. A. Weber, Col. Paul Giddings, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. W. J. Kendrick, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. L. O. Matthews, Major and Mrs. Monte J. Hickok, Major and Mrs. Lee S. Fountain, Captain and Mrs. E. C. Graham, Captain and Mrs. John C. Woodland, Captain and Mrs. John S. Gibson, Captain and Mrs. Glenn A. Ross, Captain and Mrs. John C. Green, Mrs. J. W. H. Williams, Mrs. Thomas Hearn, Lieut. Roy Inman, Lieut. and Mrs. F. J. Sheffer, Lieut. and Mrs. C. S. Howell, Miss Dorothy Lawton of New York, Miss Jean Kendrick, Miss Neal Kendrick, Miss Elizabeth Humphrey and Lieutenant Edwards.

In their annals are always enjoyable affairs and high lights in the week's gaieties, their informality making them particularly delightful.

tary in St. Louis, a beautiful engraved certificate of honorary membership in the club was presented to him.

He was elected to membership while attending the grand session in Missouri some time ago, and was also elected to honorary membership in the Past Grand Matrons' and Patrons' association of that state.

Alabama Visitors Are Honored.

Misses Fauststein and Annie Belle Jones, of Brownsville, Ala., who are guests of their aunt, Mrs. O. H. Akers, at her home on Lake Remus avenue in West End, were honor guests at an informal party at which Mrs. Akers was hostess Wednesday evening.

A romantic contest and dancing were features of the evening.

The invited guests included Miss Fauststein and Miss Annie Belle Jones, Miss Ruth Phillips, Miss Josephine Copeland, Misses Ruby and Marjorie Martin, Miss Frances Lester, Miss Evelyn Bentley, Louise Phillips, Alvin Martin, Mr. Conner, Alvin Bentley, Charles Hamby and Edward Cook.

Mrs. Fuller Honors Son.

Mrs. George Fuller entertained at a children's party Thursday afternoon at her home on St. Louis place, in honor of her young son, George, Jr., who is celebrating his sixth birthday.

A color motif of pink and green was effectively carried out in the decorations and the birthday cake. A large Jack Horner pie adorned the center of the table holding favors for the little guests.

Twenty-four friends of Master Fuller were invited.

Terrace Dance At Pershing Point.

The summer terrace dances being given each week at Pershing Point by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel and Buster Thomas will be continued this evening, dancing from 8:30 to 12 o'clock. A large number of the social and college set is expected to attend. The terrace will be especially decorated for the occasion.

Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Paxon, Mr. and Mrs. E. Daniel, Mrs. C. E. Kennich, Mrs. L. B. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Buchanan and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Fisher.

Those attending summer school at Tech and Emory are specially invited.

Lovely Trip Planned By Mr. and Mrs. Still.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Still will sail from Savannah today on the Persian for Baltimore. They will be away until the first of September. The itinerary includes a visit to Washington, New York city, Albany, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and many points in Canada, and on their return trip stops will be made at Kalamazoo, where they will attend the conventions of the I. T. U., and the W. I. A., representing the Atlanta branch of the respective international organizations; thence to Toledo, Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Nashville, Chattanooga and Lookout Mountain.

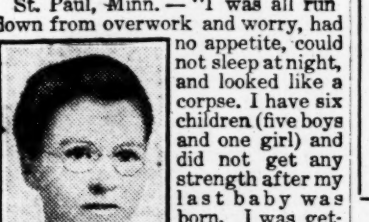

Swimming Party At Lithia Springs.

An event of Tuesday was a straw ride and swimming party at Lithia Springs, of the B. Y. P. U. of Central Baptist church. A delicious picnic supper was enjoyed after the swim. The chaperones of the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKinney.

MRS. WILHELMY SAVED BY FRIEND

Doctor Advised Operation Friend Said Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First

St. Paul, Minn.—"I was all run down from overwork and worry, had no appetite, could not sleep at night, and looked like a corpse. I have six children (five boys and one girl) and did not get any strength after my last baby was born. I was getting worse and thinner every day. The doctor said I had to go to the hospital, but this I could not do on account of my family. So I went to a friend of mine and told her what the doctor had told me and she said, 'Now do as I tell you. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I have done. It helped me.' So I started taking the Vegetable Compound and I noticed after the first few bottles that I felt considerably better. After taking 9 or 10 bottles I got over my fainting spells. Everybody who sees me now notices the great improvement in my health. I am gaining in weight and strength and am feeling fine. Eat well and sleep good nights."—Mrs. MARY WILHELMY, 309 Duke Street, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Dances on Club and Hotel Terraces Prove Popular Summer Diversions

The most interesting events on the social calendar for today are the end of the week dances on the various club and hotel terraces, which are always so popular with the young married and unmarried contingent.

The attractively cool terrace at the Atlanta Biltmore will be the scene of the usual delightful tea-dance, which is a gala event in the social life of the younger set. The Piedmont Driving club and the East Lake Country club are popular gathering places for members on these summer nights, when the artistically decorated tables are placed around the edge of the dance floor, and the growing plants and greenery form a beautiful background for the colorful scene.

Miss Elizabeth Dennis, a charming bride-elect, will be the central figure at two parties today. Miss Laura Candler will be hostess at a bridge-luncheon at her home honoring this lovely girl, and Miss Margaret Foster is to entertain at a bridge-tennis this afternoon.

Miss Frances Floyd will give a bridge-supper at her home in Ansley Park this evening where a number of the college contingent have been invited.

Many other affairs to compliment Miss Winslow during her visit will be announced later.

Mrs. Goode Honored At Many Parties.

Mrs. Kenneth M. Goode, of New York, who is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Miller Hutchings, is being enthusiastically entertained.

Parker will honor this attractive visitor Tuesday with a bridge-tennis at her home on Palisades road. A few close friends will be invited for this occasion.

Mrs. John Gilmore was hostess at a small bridge-luncheon on Friday at her home on Avery drive in Mrs. Goode's honor.

McGhee House Party Is Entertained.

A round of social gaieties are planned for the house party guests at which Charles McGhee, Jr., is entertaining at his home on East Fifteenth street.

The members of the house party will include Miss Adelaide Koonce, of Columbus; Samuel Hassell, of New York; and Thomas Goliabart, of Washington.

Mr. McGhee will entertain for his guests Saturday evening at the dinner-dance at the Piedmont Driving club.

Monday evening Miss Mary Louise Brumby will give a dance in their honor at her home in Marietta.

Sunday evening they will be honored guests at an informal supper party.

Miss Mary Armstrong will entertain for them Tuesday evening.

Berry Grant will be host Wednesday evening at the dinner-dance at the Atlanta Biltmore in honor of Miss Koonce, Mr. Hassell and Mr. Goliabart.

Mrs. Harrison Feted At Delightful Parties.

Mrs. Rob B. Harrison, of New Orleans, La., the guests of her sister, Mrs. Franklin Mikell, was guest of honor on Friday when Mrs. Ernest Young was hostess at a lovely luncheon at the Druid Hills Golf club.

Bright-hued garden flowers were used in effective decoration of the beautifully-appointed table. Covers were placed for Mrs. Young, Mrs. Mikell, Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Powers Pace, Mrs. Louis Lester, of Atlanta, Fla., Mrs. Clem Evans, Mrs. Eugene Siebert and Mrs. William Sutherland, and Mrs. Hampton Flowers, of Cartersville.

Many other delightful parties are being given in honor of Mrs. Harrison. Saturday, Mrs. Barnard Boykin will honor her at an informal luncheon.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. John Westmoreland will entertain informally at their home in Polo drive in honor of Mrs. Harrison.

Mrs. Harrison will be the central figure at the small luncheon at which Mrs. Ernest Daly will entertain at 1 o'clock Monday, July 27, at the Piedmont Driving club.

The Golden Beast

E. Phillips Oppenheim

"I see," Paul murmured. "Have either your father or your aunt ever let drop any hint as to any reason they may have for this mysterious attitude towards you?"

"They haven't any real reason," Samuel declared with almost feverish emphasis. "That's just it. It's all feeling. It's imagination. They're superstitious. They're nothing to go on, of course, but they look as though they see things, and they're so damned gloomy—gets on one's nerves. Look at me this morning. I'm not fit to do anything. I'm beginning to lie awake at night. I'm beginning to fancy Ernest in all sorts of horrible places and myself dragged off and dumped down by the side of him. Ridiculous, Paul, of course," he concluded, nervously pulling at the corner of his stubbly little moustache. "But there you are!"

"Well, what do you want me to do?" Paul asked, curiously.

"Look here," the young man pleaded, "you're the sort of chap one has confidence in—a strong, stout fellow, not a nerve in your body. It's all nonsense, isn't it? There can't be anything in it—the way dad and Aunt Honerton look at me and talk, I mean? What could happen?"

"The only thing that seems likely to happen," Paul observed dryly, "is that if you go on frightening yourself like this you'll have a nervous collapse and be compelled to go into a nursing home. Why not try a complete change—a sea voyage or something of that sort?"

"I can't leave the governor," Samuel pointed out. "I was talking to him yesterday. The old man might pop off at any moment."

"You're frightening yourself into a fever," he said. "I should recommend a course of 'Neurota'."

"I'm taking it," Samuel declared eagerly. "I pinched twelve bottles before the rush. What would do me more good than anything a few plain words from a man like yourself. There's nothing could be going on around us, sane, ordinary people, that's outside our understanding, that we can't get hold of, is there? I'm not a religious fellow, you know, Paul—'Seeing a believing' is my motto—but this disappearance of Ernest's has shaken us all up a bit, what?"

For the first time Paul's mouth relaxed. Nevertheless, his smile was not pleasant.

"I am a clever man, Samuel Fernham," he said, "and you are only gifted with a certain amount of cunning—something which passes, I suppose, for intelligence, yet let me tell you this. There are heaps of things in the world which I don't begin to understand. It's quite true that we find it difficult to believe things which we cannot understand by our positive senses. On the other hand, it's equally difficult, and for me impossible, to disbelieve. I've an open mind towards many subjects, including even some branches of the art, which a thousand years ago passed as magic, and for which today no adequate word has been coined."

"It's like a damned lecture!" Samuel grumbled. "Doesn't do me any good, anyway."

"I'm sorry," Paul replied. "If I could help you I would. I confess that your condition interests me. I don't think 'Neurota' will do you very much good. If you were capable of it, I should say that the best thing you could do would be to submit your mind to governance."

"You're a wonderful chap, Paul," Samuel admitted, "but you're always shooting off above one's head. Look here, I'm feeling like nothing on earth. Mix me up something, that's a good fellow—something that'll really pull me together for an hour or two. Is it true you're coming down to shoot?"

"Yes," Paul assented. "I'm coming down to the Honerton on Sunday."

"That's great!" Samuel exclaimed. "Somehow or other, I feel safer when you're around. Stupid! I can't help that. I suppose you'll find they call a strong character. Give me that draught, there's a good chap."

Paul rose to his feet.

"I do not recommend this sort of thing," he warned his visitor. "It's the lazy man's escape from suffering."

He disappeared through his inner door for a moment, and when he returned he came back with a click. When he reappeared with a medicine glass, Samuel was watching him with a sly gleam of curiosity in his eyes.

"You don't half shut yourself up, Paul," he remarked. "You must have a perfect little suite of rooms behind there."

"If I have," Paul replied, "it is to put it with that frankness which I am sure appeals to you—my own business. Drink this. You will feel much better for 24 hours at any rate."

Samuel swallowed the contents of the glass almost feverishly. Paul remained standing, a note of dismissal in his attitude. The young man rose reluctantly to his feet.

"Twenty-four hours!" he muttered. "Well, that's something. I suppose you think I'm a pretty poor sort of chap, don't you, Paul?" he asked a little wistfully.

"You are like many others of your type and your style of living was the indifferent reply. 'You are a coward'."

The young man spluttered. His dignity, at any rate, an artificial structure, but maintained to by means of sycophantic friends—was touched.

"Here, I say, you know, Paul," he protested. "Don't be so strong. They've made me nervous, these people. I admit it. I'm no coward when it comes to facing any ordinary danger. It's the things I don't and can't understand that terrify me."

"Those," Paul assured him as he opened the door to expedite his departure, "are the real tests."

Amberley, who had only one standard for men and only one judgment if they failed to come up to it, found it for that reason impossible to show ill humor towards a man who shot as Paul did. Nevertheless he very much resented Judith's complete desertion of himself during the first morning's sport.

"I had an idea that we were engaged," he muttered to himself as he went. "I don't expect to monopolize you but I do expect to come in for my share."

She looked up at him with that faint note of insolence in her expression which he secretly admired. In her heather mixture costume of rough tweeds, with tam-o'-shanter of the same material, she was extraordinarily attractive.

"Engaged to be married, yes," she admitted—not to spend all our time together. Besides even you, my dear Frederick, cannot shoot like Sir Lawrence."

"Can't think where he gets his practice," Amberley grumbled. "I'm not saying a word against his shooting. Judith, I couldn't, if I would, but you might sit with me the next drive."

I want to talk about that house in Curzon street.

"An unpropitious occasion," she declared. "You always forget to whisper if you get interested. You'll turn the birds, and then Middleton will be furious."

"I swear," he began—

But Judith had already disappeared, swinging her shooting stick in her hand. Paul, turning round a moment or two later to survey his position, discovered her seated just behind his loader. The latter fell discreetly into the background. The beaters were not yet in sight.

"I'm annoying Freddy horribly," she confessed. "I hope I'm not boring you hanging about like this. I should hate to make enemies of every one."

"I am very much flattered," he assured her. "By the way, you're not looking well. No more fainting fits, I hope."

"Nothing of the sort," she replied, "yet I think I am very ill. You wouldn't care to prescribe for me, I suppose?"

"This open air sort of thing is the best cure for you," he declared.

"You prescribe for Samuel," she complained. "You give him wonderful specifics which make him feel as he expresses it 'like a two year old.' Surely I am more important than Samuel. Why won't you take me in hand, please? I should be such a grateful patient."

"There is nothing the matter with your cousin, except that he is a coward," Paul explained, contemptuously. "I can easily give him the same courage. With you it would be a different affair. You have two things which he lacks—courage and self-control. If you are ill, it is your physician to whom you must go. I have no skill in the ordinary diseases of life."

"Mine is not an ordinary disease," she insisted softly. "I believe that physically I am strong enough. Mentally I think I am losing hold of myself, drifting away so far that I am sometimes terrified as to whether I shall ever come back again. . . . I wonder whether there ever was insanity in my family. That might account for Ernest's disappearance. Some day I may be missing. Would you come and look for me, Sir Lawrence?"

"It would not be my privilege," he answered.

She was thoughtful for a moment.

"I think I shall break off my engagement with Freddy," she announced deliberately. "It seems to stand in the way of so many things. Now you won't even promise to come and look for me if I float away like a phelion. Do you think there is any chance of my going mad, Sir Lawrence?"

"One can never absolutely guarantee people of your temperament and your cousin's," he said.

"You couple me with Samuel!" she gasped.

He smiled.

"At the opposite poles," he explained. "Your cousin Samuel might very well drift into lunacy through sheer lack of intelligence. With you, on the other hand, it would be a superabundance of the same quality."

"As a matter of fact," she declared, "I think that I am mad now. I am beginning to be like mother—to fancy I see things. Mother thinks she's talked with Ernest only the other night."

"On earth—or in the other place?" he queried.

"Very much on earth. She is quite sure she heard him calling her. Last night I woke up suddenly. There was no reason for it. I just woke up with a start. I found myself thinking intently of Ernest, and—your not a creepy person, are you, Sir Lawrence?"

"Not particularly," he admitted.

"I too, fancied I saw him. This all must sound like balderdash to you, of course, but at any rate it has done one thing for me. I do not believe any longer that Ernest is dead."

Paul's leader, with a little gesture of apology, had resumed his place. From the far distance came the sound of a horn; the business of the drive commenced. Paul shot before, with accuracy and skill, but perhaps this time with a little more restraint. Amberley was on his left hand, and any bird concerning which there could be the slightest question he left alone. When they were again preparing to move off, Samuel appeared, swinging a shooting stick, but no longer carrying a gun.

Samuel was obviously a fixture, and disposed to be conversational. Judith lingered for a few moments and then turned listlessly away to join Amberley. Samuel, looking more puffy than ever in the roughest tweed and thick, fleecy stockings, walked off by Paul's side.

"I wish you'd take me in hand," he said, confidentially.

"Take Lady Judith in hand?" Paul repeated. "What the mischief do you mean?"

"Give her a little good advice and that sort of thing," Samuel explained. "She takes a lot of notice of what you say, and she's overdone it. She was never one of the stay-at-home kind—always ready for any kind of thing. But she's overdone it. Paul—overdoing it badly. She's in with a fast set, too. Smartest people in town. I'll admit, but wrong uns. A. D. G. Freddy Amberley, christened 'em. Absinthe in the afternoon, drugs at night, and groans in the morning. Not bad that for Freddy!"

"I gather that Lord Amberley does not approve," Paul observed, pausing to take a long but ineffectual shot at a pigeon.

BALLARD GLASSES
Those who already wear Ballard's Glasses know, and the general public is rapidly finding out, that the quality, service and style which enters into every pair of our glasses, repair work, adjustments of frames and courteous attention to each individual patient is not always found elsewhere. Why? Because every man in our employ is an expert in his particular work. We are exclusive oculists—no side lines of any kind. Ask the better oculists and physicians about our reliability, accuracy and high-class optical service.

which has grown steadily every week in the favor of the public. "Sweethearts," the Victor Herbert musical comedy chosen for the last week, has proved most popular of the series, and the audiences have increased steadily in size and enthusiasm. Record-breaking throngs are expected for the two final performances when Atlanta will say farewell to its six weeks' favorites.

"Sporting Venus."

Four performances today will mark the close of the successful engagement of the Miller and Marks revue; headline attraction at Loew's Grand theater this week. Other acts on the Loew bill are Richy Craig, Jr., singer and story-teller; Freeman and Morton, comedians; Schaffer and Bernice in "Auto Tangle;" Kenny, Mason and Schell, acrobatic skaters, and "The Sporting Venus," the Loew feature picture.

Keith Vaudeville.

The B. F. Keith Big Time vaudeville show which has been running at the Forsyth for the past week is one of the best shows seen in Atlanta according to those who have seen the show.

Frank Hunter and company in an act called "Moving Day," are a scream from start to finish. Hunter's Italian dialect is quite the finest that we have ever heard.

The two Cheez, equilibrists, continue to share honors with the comedians. As a special added attraction the management of the Forsyth has been fortunate enough to secure the services of Lambdin Kay and Ernest Rogers in an act called, "The Voice of the South."

Aesop's Fables and Pathe News complete one of the best bills ever seen at the Forsyth.

Rogers and Kay.
(Added Attraction at Forsyth.)
Frank Hunter and his company of comedians are providing an unusual and entirely laughable comedy skit entitled "Moving Day" as the headline attraction of the bill of big-time acts at the Forsyth this week.

Then there are the two Cheez equilibrists, among the finest acrobats in vaudeville. Miss Irene Freyre is a singer of songs different, and contributes largely to the enjoyability of the program.

As a special added attraction, the management of the Forsyth is offering Ernest Rogers and Lambdin Kay, radio entertainers, in their celebrated "Mr. Rogers and Mr. Kay" skit.

WINSTON-SALEM PAPER CHANGES HANDS TODAY
Winston-Salem, N. C., July 24.—Sale of the entire capital stock of the Winston-Salem Journal company, publishers of the Morning Journal, to Owen Moore, of Trenton, N. J., was announced here tonight by H. E. Fries, principal stockholder of the paper. The new owner assumes complete charge tomorrow morning as publisher and president, with William K. Hoyt as assistant publisher and treasurer.

The new owner announces that the present plant, as well as the news service, will be expanded and that the paper "will be operated in the future as a strictly independent, representing no party, clique or influence, without political aspirations on the part of the owner."

GERMANS THREATEN EXPULSION OF POLES AS REPRISAL ACTION
Berlin, July 24.—(AP)—In reprisal against the proposed action of the Polish government to expel across the Polish frontier 30,000 persons from former German territory, who crossed their favor of Germany as against Poland, it is said the German government purposes to make a similar reprisal. It is asserted that Germany will convey to the frontier and hand over to the Polish authorities 10,000 persons living in Germany, who expressed preference for Poland.

Frederick and Laura LaPlante in the leading roles of a tense dramatic story of the sacrifices of love, closes the week's run at the Rialto theater, with showings there this afternoon and evening. The southern stars, "Jazz Banquet" from Dixieland, assisted by Ben Hume, comedian, are added attractions.

Next week Zane Grey's great story, "Light of Western Stars" will be on the screen, with a program of short subjects that will keep the screen fare up to the Rialto's high standard.

"Lost—A Wife."
(At the Howard.)
"Lost—A Wife," which has been shown at the Howard theater all this week introduces a new leading lady to the screen in the person of Greta Nissen, who is very fetching and charming indeed. In this, her first role, she has rather a difficult part, that of playing up to the very able and experienced actor, Adolph Menjou.

Alfred C. Newell, prominently connected with the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker and in an address that was inspiring, as well as instructive, he told of the possibilities of the industries that the enlarged chamber is seeking to promote in DeKalb county, dairying, poultry and trucking. He, with a mass of interesting figures, showed how the great quantity of food products consumed in Atlanta could be grown in DeKalb county and sold at home, minus packing, delay in transit and freight charges. The speaker told of the value of team work in building up an organization like the one sought in DeKalb, and he made an impassioned plea for the upbuilding of our town, county and state.

Harry Hastings also spoke along the same line as Mr. Newell. He showed how the territory around Atlanta is missing a great opportunity for development not growing the food stuffs that the city now imports. Mr. Hastings stated that the lands of DeKalb county were as good if not better than lands of other sections that were producing products that were shipped into Atlanta by the railroad.

In an effort to make the trade fairer to the county, it is proposed to increase the membership to 800 and raise a budget fund of $12,000. DeKalb will be canvassed first, then other counties will be taken up. The plan is to have 100 workers, with about 25 members to each team captain. Tonight's meeting was a get-together of those workers. Citizens from other DeKalb county towns were also present tonight.

The next meeting of the team workers is set for next Friday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Harry Hastings, chairman of the executive committee, presided tonight.

AMERICAN SAILORS MOB SYDNEY BARS TO QUENCH THIRSTS
Sydney, N. S. W., July 24.—(AP)—Thirsty "gobs" from the United States fleet today swamped Sydney bars, but did not order water. Despite limited opportunity, however, little actual drunkenness was reported.

The public, however, is getting some amusement over the reactions of the American sailors to Australia's lack of prohibitory liquor laws.

Newspapers are publishing cartoons on the subject, one of the most popular depicting a "gob" in an attitude of reverence before a schooner of beer.

DRIVE PLANS MADE BY DECATUR BOARD

Decatur, Ga., July 24.—(Special.)—An enthusiastic meeting of 30 team workers and other citizens, further plans for the membership and fund campaign launched by Decatur as DeKalb counties were made tonight.

Alfred C. Newell, prominently connected with the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker and in an address that was inspiring, as well as instructive, he told of the possibilities of the industries that the enlarged chamber is seeking to promote in DeKalb county, dairying, poultry and trucking. He, with a mass of interesting figures, showed how the great quantity of food products consumed in Atlanta could be grown in DeKalb county and sold at home, minus packing, delay in transit and freight charges. The speaker told of the value of team work in building up an organization like the one sought in DeKalb, and he made an impassioned plea for the upbuilding of our town, county and state.

Harry Hastings also spoke along the same line as Mr. Newell. He showed how the territory around Atlanta is missing a great opportunity for development not growing the food stuffs that the city now imports. Mr. Hastings stated that the lands of DeKalb county were as good if not better than lands of other sections that were producing products that were shipped into Atlanta by the railroad.

In an effort to make the trade fairer to the county, it is proposed to increase the membership to 800 and raise a budget fund of $12,000. DeKalb will be canvassed first, then other counties will be taken up. The plan is to have 100 workers, with about 25 members to each team captain. Tonight's meeting was a get-together of those workers. Citizens from other DeKalb county towns were also present tonight.

The next meeting of the team workers is set for next Friday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Harry Hastings, chairman of the executive committee, presided tonight.

AMERICAN SAILORS MOB SYDNEY BARS TO QUENCH THIRSTS
Sydney, N. S. W., July 24.—(AP)—Thirsty "gobs" from the United States fleet today swamped Sydney bars, but did not order water. Despite limited opportunity, however, little actual drunkenness was reported.

The public, however, is getting some amusement over the reactions of the American sailors to Australia's lack of prohibitory liquor laws.

Newspapers are publishing cartoons on the subject, one of the most popular depicting a "gob" in an attitude of reverence before a schooner of beer.

GERMANS THREATEN EXPULSION OF POLES AS REPRISAL ACTION
Berlin, July 24.—(AP)—In reprisal against the proposed action of the Polish government to expel across the Polish frontier 30,000 persons from former German territory, who crossed their favor of Germany as against Poland, it is said the German government purposes to make a similar reprisal. It is asserted that Germany will convey to the frontier and hand over to the Polish authorities 10,000 persons living in Germany, who expressed preference for Poland.
